

Multiyear Grants

Frequently Asked Questions

Why is the Foundation making multiyear grants?

The Foundation is responding to feedback from organizations across the sector that multiyear grants support organizations' ability to engage in longer term planning, participate in collaborative efforts, and build capacity for their organizations to better serve their communities.

Are there any changes to the funding priority areas as a result of the implementation of multiyear grants?

No, there have been no changes to the funding priority areas.

Can an organization that has been invited to apply for a multiyear grant also apply for a 1-year grant in the same grant cycle?

Organizations that are invited to participate in McCune's multiyear grantmaking process can't also apply for an additional 1-year grant in the same grant cycle.

In looking at collaborations, does the Foundation consider collaboration among individuals within an organization, or does "collaboration" refer to shared work among organizations?

The Foundation focuses on organization-to-organization collaborations.
